Field Notes

Monday, November 9, 2026
Boston · High 53° · Low 44°

IDEAS & LIFE

Lee Harris @LeeHarris · Nov 8 — IDEAS & LIFE

A remarkable and deeply moving photograph capturing the first two minutes of silence in London, 106 years ago on Tuesday 11th November 1919.

The first time a grieving nation held its collective breath.

Lest we forget.

Mimi Morgan @mimikmorgan · Nov 8 — IDEAS & LIFE

Hug the ones you love. Spend time with the ones you love. Don't walk away from the ones you love. Show up for the ones you love.

Today was one of the best days of my life, an ordinary Sunday with the ones I love. I took in every moment, I didn't want to miss anyrhing. 🙏❤️

Keri Smith 🌱Deprogrammed @RealKeriSmith · Nov 8 — IDEAS & LIFE

If you are feeling nothing but doom, let me tell you about one of the blessings of a good church, with a strong Pastor and elders, rooted in the word.

Our Pastor @BradleyJHelger1's sermon today was about the 3 reasons for God's judgment of a nation, and the various steps we should take following judgment. The first among them being repentance.

But the take away was that our response is never despair. Despair wasn't the response of our forefathers. It wasn't the response of our nation's founders. And it's not the Christian response. We build and we fight. The trowel and the sword.

I'll share the sermon when it's up. If you don't have a strong church family, find one. Build one. There's nothing else like it. 🙏🔥

Alan D Miller @alanvibe · Nov 8 — IDEAS & LIFE

On Remembrance Day we remember those that gave so much so we could have our freedom - some the ultimate sacrifice

We have a duty to defend and uphold our freedom and privacy today

In about to go onto GB News have been at #remembrance #sunday

We'll be talking about Digital ID & my new book "We Are Stronger Together" which is out now - get a copy here https://t.co/D3fUmG8Tyo #we #together stronger #together

SCIENCE & HEALTH

Benjamin Bikman @BenBikmanPhD · Nov 8 — SCIENCE & HEALTH

The view that red meat causes cancer is hard to justify. I invite anyone to look at the trends in red meat consumption over the last century and compare this to cancer trends over the same time period.

PGA Tour @PGATour · Nov 8 — SCIENCE & HEALTH

Over three years ago, Blades Brown's dad was diagnosed with leukemia and only given a year to live.

After defying doctors' expectations, he got to see his son earn his first PGA Tour victory in person @WWTChampionship ❤️

BUILDING & MAKING

David Senra @davidsenra · Nov 8 — BUILDING & MAKING

Palo Alto Networks' @nikesharora believes cybersecurity is actually very simple:

1. Stop bad guys at the perimeter.
2. Keep the inside of the house in order.
3. Assume something will get through: find it and eject it before it can do harm.

"That's cybersecurity in a nutshell."

---

anu @anuatluru · Nov 8 — BUILDING & MAKING

"Make it exist first, then you can make it good" is one of those nice sayings that's meant to help you overcome inertia and perfectionism, but following this advice too bluntly is risky. Because once you make something exist, it's tempting to focus next on making it grow. And by then you're already trapped in the iteration you've shipped first, at least for a while.

Matt Ahlborg @MattAhlborg · Nov 8 — BUILDING & MAKING

We @PPQdotAI use a TEE router. It makes it so that we:

1) Cannot see the content of our users' queries
2) Prove the model and provider that the query ended up executing (no model fraud possible)

Other routers follow the "trust me bro" architecture.

. . .

That's all for today.

All posts are from X, quoted in full as posted. Seven posts, November 8–9, 2026. Compiled Monday, Nov. 9, ET.